South Florida Baptist Hospital
301 N. Alexander Street, Plant City
in the Community Conference Room
Call Janice Falcon at 813-779-9353 for directions or information.

Please note: We understand how difficult it is to attend your first meeting. Feelings can be overwhelming; we have all experienced them and know how important it is to take the first step. Our stories may be different, but we are alike in that we all hurt deeply. We can not take your pain away, but we can offer friendship and support. Bring a friend or relative to lean on if you wish!

Please regard this as a safe time and place to come and be with those who know that the grief never disappears although it does lessen. Our meetings are open to all bereaved parents, step-parents, grandparents, and older siblings and are planned to be a source of comfort and support. We need not grieve alone! See you next month.

*The risk of love is loss,
And the price of loss is grief -
But the pain of grief
Is only a shadow
When compared with the pain
Of never risking love.*

TENDING A GARDEN CAN HELP ALLEVIATE YOUR GRIEF

Even in the darkest stages of grief, Marsha Olson believes the seeds of hope can grow in a garden.

Olson, a grief counselor, is helping others find solace in nature with her book "A Garden of Love & Healing: Living Tributes to Those We Have Loved and Lost." The book is a guide to creating a memorial garden in honor of a loved one, but it also contains gentle guidance on getting through the grieving process.

Olson includes anecdotes about gardeners working through their emotions, descriptions of memory gardens and ideas for thematic gardens. She also supplies lists of symbolic plants and their meanings and sources for meaningful garden accessories.

"A Garden of Love and Healing" is published by Fairview Press and is priced at $18.95.

*For every flower that opens in your garden,
Another wound is healed in your heart.*

Love Gifts-A Thoughtful Way to Remember

Love Gifts are a beautiful and loving way to remember a loved one. Through Love Gifts, we are able to reach out to others with our brochures and newsletters as well as obtain books and other information for our library. We truly appreciate every Love Gift, donation and sponsorship. Our Chapter work is done by volunteers and these donations help us reach out in many ways, including the preparation and mailing of the newsletter.

Refreshments

Some of us like to remember our child's birthday or the anniversary of his or her death by bringing a cake or cookies to the meeting that month. We would appreciate having you bring a special treat to any meeting. You may also want to bring and share a picture of your child. Thank you!

Chapter Library Books

If you have finished reading a BP/USA Library book, please, please return it to our library. The longer you borrow a book, the less opportunities other bereaved parents have to read it. We also gladly accept book donations.

Contact Tommy or Barbara Dietrich at (813) 234-4705 or visit one of our three monthly sharing meetings to return a book, arrange a donation or inquire about an available title.

Sponsor A Newsletter Page

Anyone can sponsor a page in this newsletter in memory of their child. The price for a full page is $60 which includes one black and white scan of one photograph and your tribute to your child, which can include poems, stories or whatever you like. Your contribution supports the chapter and helps pay for the printing of the newsletter.

To sponsor a newsletter page, contact Beverley Hurley at (813) 832-3175 (email bee.hurley@gte.net). Please note that sponsorship pages are due by the 15th of the month BEFORE the publication month.

Electronic Newsletter

The Newsletter is available electronically. To receive it by Email, send your name and email address to: bee.hurley@gte.net and indicate your desire to switch from regular "snail" mail to email. Email recipients will also receive additional news and information, while helping our chapter save costs. We very much appreciate your cooperation by helping us out this way!

Telephone Friends

Need to talk? Having a bad day? Call one of our Telephone Friends. They're here to lend a knowing ear because they've been there. Don't hesitate to call, we understand.

LIVE ONE DAY AT A TIME

By Rabbi Earl Grollman

From "Living When a Loved One Has Died"
Memories—tender, loving, bittersweet.
They can never be taken from you.
Nothing can detract from the joy and the beauty
you and your loved one shared.
Your love for the person
and his or her love for you cannot be altered by time or circumstance.
The memories are yours to keep.

Yesterday has ended,
though you store it in the treasure-house of the past.
And tomorrow?
How can you face
its awesome problems and challenges?
It is as far beyond your mastery
as your ability to control yesterday.
Journey one day at a time.
Don't try to solve all the problems of your life at once.
Each day's survival is a triumph.

WHEN YOU FEEL YOU CAN'T GO ON

Written by: Tammie Byram Fowles, author of BirthQuake: The Journey to Wholeness

I'm sorry that you're hurting so desperately right now. I know how painful the seconds, and minutes, and days can be, how long the nights are. I understand how very hard hanging on is, and how much courage it takes. I ask though that you hold on to one day at a time.

Just one day, and slowly this despair will pass. The feelings you fear you're trapped in will serve their purpose, and then fade away. Difficult to imagine isn't it? Almost impossible to believe when every cell in your body it seems cries out in agony, desperately in need of comfort. When it feels like the only thing in the whole world that can touch your pain and banish it is beyond your grasp. And after all this time, the assurance that you will heal has become an empty, broken promise.

Just let one tiny cell in your body continue to believe in the promise of healing. Just one. You can surrender every other cell to your despair. Just that one little cell of faith that you can heal and be whole again is enough to keep you going, is enough to lead you through the darkness. Although it can't banish your suffering, it can sustain you until the time comes for you to let your pain go. And the letting go can only occur in its own time, as much as we would like to push the pain away forever.

Hold on. Hold on to appreciate the beauty of the earth, to feel the songs of the birds in your heart, to learn and to teach, to laugh a genuine laugh, to dance on the beach, to rest peacefully, to experience contentment, to want to be no other place but in the here and now, to trust in yourself, and to trust your life.

Hold on because it's worth the terrible waiting. Hold on because you are worthy. Hold on because the wisdom that will follow you out of this darkness will be a tremendous gift. Hold on because you have so much love and joy waiting to be experienced. Hold on because life is precious, even though it can bring terrible losses. Hold on because there is so much that you can't now imagine waiting ahead on your journey – a destiny that only you can fulfill. Hold on although you're exhausted and your grasp is shaky, and you want more than anything to let go sometimes, hold on even though.

Please hold on. So much in life can be difficult, even impossible to understand. I know, I know... So many of us have cried in despair, "Why?" "Why?" "Why?" and still the answers and the comfort failed to show. Survival can be a long and lonely road, in spite of all those who've stumbled down the path before you. And it can be a treacherous, torturous journey - so easy to get lost, and yet impossible to avoid even one painful step. And the light, the light at the end of the dark tunnel for so long cannot be seen, although eventually you'll begin to feel its warmth as you move forward. And forward you must move in order to get through the hell of remembering, of despair, of rage, of grief. Keep looking forward please. Rest if you must, doubt your ability to survive the journey if you have to, but never let go of the guide ropes, although when you close your fingers around them, your hands feel empty, they are there. Please trust me, they are there... When you're exhausted, when all you have to count on is a weakened, weary faith, hold on. When you think you want to die, hold on until you recognize that it's not death you seek, but for the pain to go away. Hold on, because this darkness will surely fade away.

Hold on ... Please hold on ...

BUT IT HURTS—DIFFERENTLY

By Rabbi Earl A. Grollman

There is no way to predict how you will feel.

The reactions of grief are not like recipes, with given ingredients and certain results. Each person mourns in a different way. You may cry hysterically. Or you may remain outwardly controlled, showing little emotion.

You may lash out in anger against your family and friends, or you may express your gratitude for their concern and dedication. You may be calm one moment—in turmoil the next.

Reactions are varied and contradictory. Grief is universal. At the same time it is extremely personal.

The Little Things

Often even the simple tasks of everyday living seem to drain every ounce of one's energy.

Remember going to the grocery store for months after your child's death and the feelings you had as you passed up his or her favorite cereal?

Or watching another child the same age as yours in a restaurant and trying to swallow your food—you probably didn't even taste it.

Or hearing a certain song in public and fighting back the tears?

Sometimes even getting through the day in your own home makes you feel like you've run a marathon and leaves you in worse shape. You probably never dreamed that doing laundry could make you cry, or getting a piece of mail in your child's name could suck your breath away.

Even the best of friends and families can't possibly know the strength you must summon day after day. We shouldn't expect them to understand completely, but it does get lonely.

Perhaps this quote puts it in a nutshell: "One sad thing about this world is that acts that take the most out of you are usually the ones that people will never know about."

Our Credo

We are the parents whose children have died. We are the grandparents who have buried grandchildren. We are the siblings whose brothers and sisters no longer walk with us through life. We come together as Bereaved Parents of the USA to provide a haven where all bereaved families can meet and share our long and arduous grief journeys.

We attend monthly gatherings whenever we can and for as long as we believe necessary. We share our tears, confusion, anger, guilt, frustrations, emptiness, and feelings of hopelessness so that hope can be found anew. As we accept, support, comfort and encourage each other, we demonstrate to each other that survival is possible.

Together we celebrate the lives of our children, share the joys and triumphs as well as the love that will never fade. Together we learn how little it matters where we live, our color, our affluence, or what faith we uphold as we confront the tragedies of our children's deaths. Together, strengthened by the bonds we forge at our gatherings, we offer what we have learned to each other and to every more recently bereaved family.

We are the Bereaved Parents of the USA.
We Welcome You.

The Healing Power of Music in Bereavement

By Albert Lee Strickland

For the human heart and mind, music is a gift that brings hope and comfort through even the darkest times. In the midnight hour of the soul, when we feel most besieged by grief and alone in sorrow, music offers solace in the recognition that, although the rhythms of our lives fluctuate between joy and despair, the song remains.

PRECIOUS MEMORIES

Memories, memories, memories
Are all I have of you,
Precious, precious memories
of a child who died too soon.

Some of my memories are visible
And some of them are not.
But all are treasured in my mind
And deep within my heart.

Memories, memories, memories
They help me face each new day,
Precious, precious memories
Can never be taken away.
