Sharing Grief

Opening To Receive Comfort
<http://www.dailyom.com/>

When we experience something that causes us to feel shock and sadness, we may feel the urge to withdraw from life. It may seem like remaining withdrawn will keep us protected from the world, but during these times it is important to reach out to those trusted and precious people who care about us the most. Even with our best information and reasoning, we never know when someone else's experience or perspective can give us additional information that we need. The universe speaks to us through many channels, and when we open ourselves up to receive its messages, we also receive nurturing care from a loving partner in life's journey.

Grief is part of the human experience, and sharing our vulnerability is what creates truly close bonds in our relationships. Opening ourselves up in this way gets to the core of our being, past all of our defenses and prejudices. When life seems to crack the outer shell of our world, we are both raw and fresh at the same time. It is then that we discover who is truly willing to walk with us through life. We also see that some of those sent to us may not be the ones we expected to see. Regardless, we learn to trust in the universe, in others, in our own strength and resilience, and in the wisdom of life itself.

Sharing grief allows us to ease our burden by letting someone else help carry it. This helps us process our own inner thoughts and feelings through the filter of a trusted and beloved someone. We may feel guilty or selfish, as if we are unloading on someone who has their own challenges. Although, if we think about it, we know we would do the same for them, and their protests would seem pointless. Remember that not sharing feelings with others denies them the opportunity to feel. We may be the messenger sent by the universe for their benefit, and it is on this mission that we have been sent. By sharing our hopes and fears, joys and pains with another person, we accept the universe's gifts of wisdom and loving care.

The Empty Chair

by Ronnie Peterson, Northern NY

I remember the first Thanksgiving after Tony was killed. I didn't know how we could possibly get through that dinner, with his empty chair.

The solution that occurred to me was to fill his chair with someone else — several someones. Grandpa came to spend the week; a newly widowed friend came to dinner, and so did her delightful young nephew and his bride, who had just moved to town. They brought the salad. And we were thankful — for each other, for the love among us, and for memories.

If this will be your first Thanksgiving, do something different. The pattern for your life has been broken. Break it some more! Have dinner at a different place, or with different people. Go away for the weekend. Be kind to yourself. You do not have it all, but you have something.

Thanksgiving Prayer

I'm thankful this Thanksgiving
 That my grief is not so new.
 Last year it was so painful
 To think of losing you.

Death can't claim my love for you
 Tho we are far apart,
 Sweet memories will always be
 Engraved upon my heart.

Time can never bring you back
 But it can help me be Thankful for the years of joy
 You brought our family.

To all the parents with grief so new
 I share your loss and sorrow.
 I pray you find with faith and time
 The blessings of each tomorrow.

THE FIRST IS THE WORST

By Michelle Ramsey, Tampa, FL

They say the first is the worst.
 I know the pain of not having my child.
 I know the pain of not being able to hold her.
 I know the pain I went through to have her.
 I know the pain of burying my child.
 I know the pain every time I go to the grave.
 But no one said how the pain would increase when the ...
 First Valentines Day came
 First Easter came
 First Mother's Day came
 First Father's Day came
 First Birthday came.

All the holidays that come during the first year are really very hard after your child dies.
 I know the pain of those "First's."

You will get through them.
 Believe me — I know.
 I'm halfway there —
 Then I'll have to do the "Two's."

From: THE BEREAVED PARENT

By Harriet Schiff

A very difficult area of functioning is coming to grips with the knowledge that there is absolutely no way of getting around holidays, despite your best efforts to avoid them. And they are horrendous times for many years. Their pain cannot be minimized. But they still must be faced.

One family, trying to avoid thanksgiving - which was the dead child's birthday as well - decided that family gatherings were no longer for them. They would travel or simply ignore the festivities. One day the mother came upon her ten year old daughter crying and asked what was wrong. She was sobbing, reported the mother, "All the children in school had told of their plans and made table decorations for the holiday and Lynn felt completely removed from her classmates. She cried that she was not only deprived of her brother who was dead, but she couldn't even have Thanksgiving dinner and a turkey! I listened and held her in my arms and cried. What she was saying made sense. After all, we still had three living children. They also mattered. That night I talked to my husband and we decided that, no matter how bleak and empty it would be, we would have a traditional Thanksgiving dinner.

The family sat around the table, very quietly at first. The father said grace and thanked the lord for a bountiful meal. When he was through, their ten-year old said she had something to add. "I want to thank Mommy and Daddy for making this very special dinner for our family. And most of all I want to thank you, God, for having let us have my brother Eric for six years." The mother, who will never forget what her daughter said, told me there was not a dry eye at the table for a few minutes. But, gradually as the meal progressed, they made an effort to discuss why the holiday was celebrated. From there, the parents told of amusing experiences at Thanksgiving dinners in their younger years. The mother said she planned to tell the stories to lighten the atmosphere just as carefully as she planned the menu. By the time the meal was over, the parents discovered what had been built up in their minds as unsurvivable had become just another turning point.

There will be many such turning points as you work your way forward. You've already survived what you were certain you could not live through - the death of your child. Turning points, plateaus, are merely steps in coping and nothing more. As you go through each holiday, each season, each happy/sad occasion, you will gain strength from having passed beyond yet another painful event.

Again This Year ... Picture Buttons

Families wishing to have a picture button of their child made can do so at the Candlelight Ceremony. Price for each button is $3 and you can get one made 30 minutes before the start of the ceremony. Buttons are round and measure approximately 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

Our Credo

We are the parents whose children have died. We are the grandparents who have buried grandchildren. We are the siblings whose brothers and sisters no longer walk with us through life. We come together as Bereaved Parents of the USA to provide a haven where all bereaved families can meet and share our long and arduous grief journeys.

We attend monthly gatherings whenever we can and for as long as we believe necessary. We share our tears, confusion, anger, guilt, frustrations, emptiness, and feelings of hopelessness so that hope can be found anew. As we accept, support, comfort and encourage each other, we demonstrate to each other that survival is possible.

Together we celebrate the lives of our children, share the joys and triumphs as well as the love that will never fade. Together we learn how little it matters where we live, our color, our affluence, or what faith we uphold as we confront the tragedies of our children's deaths. Together, strengthened by the bonds we forge at our gatherings, we offer what we have learned to each other and to every more recently bereaved family.

We are the Bereaved Parents of the USA.
We Welcome You.

To die one's self is a thing that must be easy,
and light of consequence;
but to lose a part of one's self--well,
we know how deep that pain goes,
we who have suffered that disaster,
received that wound which cannot heal...
It is one of the mysteries of our nature that a man,
all unprepared,
can receive a thunder-stroke like that and live.
It will take mind and memory months and possibly years to gather together the details and thus learn and know the whole extent of the loss.

Mark Twain, 1888, on the death of his daughter, Suzy Clemens

THANKSGIVING

Shirley Ottman, Denton, TX, BP/USA

Turkey? No! Not this year. I have no energy to dress it and no heart to decorate the house.
No mind to fabricate a merry smile when grief,
like snow, piles up on me and keeps me cold.
Steak, I think, will be just fine. (I might not even want a taste of mine.)
I'll have my husband grill one each for those who'll share Thanksgiving Day with us.
I'll bake potatoes and prepare a salad,
simple fare.
We'll do a store bought pie for all I care.
Turkey? Not this year.
Another time - perhaps 2003 - but somehow,
not, today, it's just too much for me.
